Assessment One

In my animation, I aimed to execute the “show not tell” rule through a classic underdog story. In the animation, I decided to incorporate a ball into the project by setting the story at the state championship for baseball. At the beginning, the blue team walks to the field with smiles and excitement until they come face to face with the competition. The competition is bigger and more intimidating than the blue team which leads to fear and anxiety about the game. The coach of the blue team then gives the team a pep talk which encourages them to do their best. After the talk, the blue team has regained their confidence and are ready for the game. By watching the animation, the audience learns about the importance of encouragement and believing in oneself.
